Better Government Committee is Formed In Bristol Township

Urge Citizens to Attend Commissioners Meeting Wednesday Night

All citizens of Bristol Township are being urged to attend the regular monthly meeting of the Township Commissioners, which is scheduled for Wednesday evening in Edgely Fire house at eight o'clock.

The appeal for the citizens to attend the meeting was issued today by a recently organized group, known as "The Bristol Township Better Government Committee." The object of the organization is to find out the facts concerning the "deplorable" condition existing in the township.

The organization known as the Bristol Township Better Government Committee was founded by a group of businessmen and citizens of the township, according to spokesmen for the group and its formation was due to "the conditions that have existed in the township since it became a first class township."

The organization is said to be non-partisan and non-political and in a statement signed by its officers its purpose will be to inform the public what is taking place in the township in the present political set-up. This is a non-partisan organization. The executive board consists of an equal number of members of both parties from each ward.

The officers are listed as: Howard J. Robinson, chairman; Francis Seader, vice-chairman; Charles Haggerty, secretary; Vernon L. Bailey, treasurer. The officers were elected by the executive board which consists of 18 members, three from each ward. Meetings will be held once a week or as often as necessary "until the present crisis is met with," says a spokesman.

MAY 11, 1953TRACKING THE BIG WIND

Tornadoes cost the lives of more than 250 persons and caused nearly $50,000,000 of damage last year. The toll, both in lives and property, varies somewhat from year to year, but it is always high.

An on-the-spot description of a recent tornado which struck Georgia and was costly in lives and property damage is typical. There was no warning. First hint of the twister was the sight of a mammoth black cloud, lighter at the base. The base, one man said, was "boiling like mad."

Buildings which presented any resistance at all to the wind were blown flat. Others, caught with doors and windows closed, exploded outward, as the air pressure momentarily dropped in the wake of the blast.

Such stories focus attention on the apparent inability of man to do much about this phenomenon, even when the season and the approximate area which will be struck are a matter of ancient history. Several years ago the Air Force succeeded in tracking one such storm on radar, obtaining a plot of its course and speed.

Early warnings in this instance eliminated the death toll. There was considerable damage, but probably less than there would otherwise have been.

A retired Navy captain who was in charge of the Navy's weather forecasting service believes that installation of a radar network across the tornado zones reduce both loss of life and damage. Almost every type of weather disturbance can be picked up and tracked on a radar screen. When a network is working in concert, such a disturbance can hold few secrets or surprises.

Efforts are being made in the South and Midwest to make construction changes which will defeat tornado winds. Such simple action as opening doors and windows has saved many a house. But apparently an early warning system is the crux of the situation.

A TOURIST YEAR

More Americans than in any year since World War II will go to Europe this summer, but new records will also be set by tourists in this country. Everywhere facilities are being readied to accommodate a record crop.

Every year since the war has seen more tourists on the road than in the preceding year. Motels and other facilities have been built by the thousands, but customers continue to fill them to overflowing all summer long.

At Yellowstone, bellwether of the parks, facilities are being opened gradually as usual and by late June tourists will be flocking to that wonderland at the rate of more than 10,000 a day. As long as Yellowstone continues to attract ever larger crowds, tourist facilities elsewhere will continue to boom.

TRACKING THE BIG WIND

Tornadoes cost the lives of more than 250 persons and caused nearly $50,000,000 of damage last year. The toll, both in lives and property, varies somewhat from year to year, but it is always high.

An on-the-spot description of a recent tornado which struck Georgia and was costly in lives and property damage is typical. There was no warning. First hint of the twister was the sight of a mammoth black cloud, lighter at the base. The base, one man said, was "boiling like mad."

Buildings which presented any resistance at all to the wind were blown flat. Others, caught with doors and windows closed, exploded outward, as the air pressure momentarily dropped in the wake of the blast.

Such stories focus attention on the apparent inability of man to do much about this phenomenon, even when the season and the approximate area which will be struck are a matter of ancient history. Several years ago the Air Force succeeded in tracking one such storm on radar, obtaining a plot of its course and speed.

Early warnings in this instance eliminated the death toll. There was considerable damage, but probably less than there would otherwise have been.

A retired Navy captain who was in charge of the Navy's weather forecasting service believes that installation of a radar network across the tornado zones reduce both loss of life and damage. Almost every type of weather disturbance can be picked up and tracked on a radar screen. When a network is working in concert, such a disturbance can hold few secrets or surprises.

Efforts are being made in the South and Midwest to make construction changes which will defeat tornado winds. Such simple action as opening doors and windows has saved many a house. But apparently an early-warning system is the crux of the situation.

A TOURIST YEAR

More Americans than in any year since World War II will go to Europe this summer, but new records will also be set by tourists in this country. Everywhere facilities are being readied to accommodate a record crop.

Every year since the war has seen more tourists on the road than in the preceding year. Motels and other facilities have been built by the thousands, but customers continue to fill them to overflowing all summer long.

At Yellowstone, bellwether of the parks, facilities are being opened gradually as usual and by late June tourists will be flocking to that wonderland at the rate of more than 10,000 a day. As long as Yellowstone continues to attract ever larger crowds, tourist facilities elsewhere will continue to boom.

that is used by the Authority to provide municipal services.

According to John Lucisano, Tullytown borough councilman, the borough was notified Wednesday that the petition had been filed by the Levittown Penna. Corp. with the assessment and revision board.

He said that Tullytown's interest was in the assessment of the water works which lies in Tullytown borough. He said the sewer disposal plant lies in Bristol township.

The present assessment on the water works is about $300,000, Lucisano said. A figure of approximately $2,500,000 has been given as the real valuation of the water and sewerage works when completed.

According to Lucisano this is the first year that a tax bill has been sent covering the water works because the facilities were only completed last year.

J. Russell Straub, Bristol township school board president, said the matter has been under study by the board's attorney for some time and involves not only the sewerage works in Bristol township but also the water towers about which he said there was some question of ownership and assessment.

Whatever decision is rendered today by the Board of Assessment and Revision it is reported that either side has the right of appeal to the Court of Common Pleas, beyond which further appeals are available to either the petitioners or those opposed to the petition.

The corsages, with which each guest was presented, and the table decorations were taken care of by Newtown Garden Club.

Following the meeting at the Temperance House, the group adjourned to the Club House on West Centre Avenue where a most interesting Hobby Show was presented by members of the American Home and Drama and Arts Committee. a hobby, the pleasure derived is the principal achievement, and the recreational value; also there is a therapeutic value in becoming interested in a hobby. Hobbyists have a lot in common and there are many books available in most libraries concerning hobbies.

Miss Doris Erdman, a member of the Newtown Elementary School faculty exhibited her collection of Old Silver and spoke on that subject. She has many interesting objects in her collection, a chalice pin of about the 1890 era, a card case of 1852, and a pair of snuff boxes worthy of note. Miss Erdman stated "Sterling silver came into existence about 1765 and in 1890 knives and forks came into common use, and the silver of that day was used all the time."

The corsages, with which each guest was presented, and the table decorations were taken care of by Newtown Garden Club.

Following the meeting at the Temperance House, the group adjourned to the Club House on West Centre Avenue where a most interesting Hobby Show was presented by members of the American Home and Drama and Arts Committee. Here more than 100 persons registered to see the lovely pieces of handwork exhibited by members of the Club and townspeople.

The committee on the Hobby Show included Mrs. E. Howard Kester and Mrs. Horace Tomlinson, chairman of the two committees assisted by Mrs. Berthold Fischel, Miss Elizabeth Palmer, Mrs. Marion C. Beans, Miss Sara J. Packer, Mrs. Seymour Peskind, Mrs. Charles V. Cornell, Mrs. William Loughrey, Mrs. Clinton Greenlee and Mrs. E. Barnes Barker.

At the business meeting of the Executive Committee of the Club $5 was voted to the Cancer Drive. Mrs. Leroy Stackhouse was recorded as a new member of the Club.

The Scholarship award to Council Rock High School was divided into two separate awards of $5 each—for the student with the highest rating in the business course and the highest rating in the secretarial course, with the following qualifications—1, proficiency in subjects; 2, character and attitude; 3, ability to follow direction; 4, ability to work independently. Mrs. Raymond S. Taylor was named to represent the Club as a judge at the Council Rock School Fair May 15th.

The Rev. Robert J. Thomson, pastor, performed the ceremony. Church decorations were of white gladiolas and other mixed white flowers.

Mrs. Charles Rudolph served as organist and accompanist for Mr. George Morges, who rendered "Beethoven," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The matron of honor, Mrs. Richard Brady, Andalusia, selected a gown of yellow nylon net over taffeta with an over skirt of nylon tulle, fashioned with a lace strapless bodice and lace jacket. She wore short nylon gloves and satin shoes to match, a headpiece of orange blossoms with a rose veil and carried cascading talisman roses and ivy. The bridesmaid was Miss Judith Wright, Edgely, whose orchid gown was fashioned similar to the matron of honor. Junior bridesmaids were cousins of the bride, Karen Lee Culbertson, Bristol, whose gown was pink. She carried yellow roses and ivy and Margaret Ann Flanigan, Pennfield, chose blue and a bouquet of yellow roses.

The best man was Mr. Gordon Gilbert, Bath st., Bristol. Mr. Louis Loeffler, Croydon, was usher. Junior ushers were Stephen Struble, Croydon, brother of the bridegroom and James Flanigan, Pennfield, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore black accessories and an orchid corsage with a black and white sheer silk dress topped by a cape. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige sheer linen dress, trimmed with bronze beading, brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bridegroom graduated from Bristol high school and is stationed with the U. S. Navy at Bainbridge, Md., as a second class seaman.

The bride graduated from Bristol high school and is employed as secretary at Kaiser Metal Products Corp. A reception for 200 guests was held in Burlington (N. J.) Moose Home.

The Best Dressed Christian We can not be among the best dressed in the eyes of the fashion designers of the world, for we are neither important nor rich enough. We can, however, be on God's list of "best dressed Christians," when we take these two steps:

1. Get Rid of Our Old Cloths: immorality, impurity, passion, covetousness, evil desire, anger, wrath, malice, slander, and foul talk.

2. Put On New Cloths: compassion, kindness, humility, patience, forbearance, forgiveness, and love.

In the change of becoming a best dressed Christian we shall stop short of our hopes, if we have not "let the peace of God rule in our hearts"; "let the word of God dwell in our hearts"; "done all in the name of the Lord Jesus." (Read Colossians 3:1-17) boys received rubber balls. Refreshments were served to: Ivie Marie and Joseph Yeagle, David Bourne, Harold Fischer, Sandra Walters, Elaine Althemer, Michael Vetter, Bath Addition; Lynn Crapp, Bristol Heights; Mrs. William Bourne, Mrs. Carl Vetter, Sr., Bath Addition; Mrs. Franklin Crapp, Bristol Heights. Karen received gifts.

Large Company Witnesses Tomlin-Vattimo Wedding

A large company was in attendance Saturday afternoon at the ceremony which united Miss Lena M. Vattimo and Mr. Harry Edward Tomlin, Jr., in marriage. The setting for the nuptials was St. Ann's R. C. Church, the hour being three o'clock. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Tomlin, Phila.

Mr. Anthony Vattimo, Sr., 527 Linden street, escorted his daughter to the altar where the Rev. Peter Pinci performed the ceremony. As the bride made her way up the aisle, Mrs. Louis V. Frease, Mill street, organist provided a bridal march. She was also the accompanist for Miss Theresa Lomma, 307 Brook street, whose vocal offerings were "The Rosary" and "On This Day".

Miss Vattimo was attractive in a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin. The bodice, long tapered sleeves, apron effect were of lace with pleated tulle ruffles providing a wide edging for the "apron" portion. A double tier of pleated nylon tulle appeared at the bottom of the skirt and formed a chapel train. Illusion filled in the neckline. Her bonnet type headpiece was set off with pearl cluster trim. To this was attached a finger-tip veil and face veil of tulle. The bride's colonial bouquet consisted of white carnations with lavender orchid at the center.

A trio of attendants wore gowns of nylon tulle over satin. These were ballerina length and strapless, and with them were worn tulle jackets with cap sleeves. Mrs. Joseph Kozuck, Burlington, N. J., aunt of the bride, was attired in yellow, she serving as matron of honor. Miss Rose Marie Tomlin, Phila., sister of the bridegroom, wore lavender; and Miss Geraldine Centanni, cousin of the bride, of Phila., was costumed in lime green. Their bonnets were patterned similar to that worn by the bride, minus veils. These as well as their slippers were in the color tones of the gowns. Each carried a colonial bouquet of carnations, Miss Tomlin's being pink; and the other two yellow.

Selected by Mr. Tomlin as his best man was Mr. Walter Cegielaski, Phila., and as ushers Mr. Anthony Vattimo, Jr., Linden st., brother of the bride, and Mr. Samuel Garofola, Burlington, uncle of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Tomlin received guests at the home of the bride's parents. Leaving later for a week's stay in the Pocono mountains, Mrs. Tomlin wore a gray and yellow check suit, yellow straw hat with face veil, black accessories, yellow topper, and a lavender orchid. Her gifts to her attendants were rhinestone necklaces and earrings. Mr. Tomlin present cuff links to his attendants.

For the wedding Mrs. Vattimo wore a teal blue lace dress, pink flowered hat, navy blue slippers and bag, and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Tomlin, the bridegroom's mother, selected a black and white striped dress, red hat and slippers and red rose corsage.

The former Miss Vattimo, a graduate of Bristol high school, is employed in the personnel office of Philco Corp., Croydon. Her husband, a Northeast Catholic high school (Phila.) graduate, served 4½ years in the U. S. Navy. He is employed by Quaker City Rubber Corp., Phila. The two will occupy an apartment on Frankford ave., Phila.

Aeromodelers Will Hold Annual Flying Circus

Plans for the Bristol Aeromodelers fourth annual flying circus for model planes are proceeding nicely with only two weeks remaining before its date, May 24. All experienced model plane fliers in the club will devote the remaining time to various contest matters and all judges will be busy reviewing the rules and regulations for their events.

One of the new events scheduled for this year's circus will be for radio-controlled models. This event will be under the supervision of Charles Simpson and Herman Bahr, who will also act as directors and judges of this complex event. This event is expected to draw numerous entries and will be kept quite active all day. Inquiries from model plane contestants in three states concerning this event, and the field facilities for it have already been received.

Another event for model helicopters was added at the request of a leading model manufacturer who has donated 250 already built model helicopters for a special duration event. This event will be open for all to enter and any contestant or spectator who desires to participate will be given one of these models. An 8 mm movie camera will be given to the winner of the event.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Bennett with Miss Evelyn Keyser conducting the devotional period based on the Little Gospel in John 3:16.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Harry Cornell, Mrs. Willet Hibbs and Mrs. Belle Paxson.

Other events will be for team racing, combat flying, stunt flying, flying scale and glider duration.

Club members fear that this year's contestants may reach a huge number and that the facilities of the flying site may not be ample. All judges and timers have been asked to thoroughly familiarize themselves with the rules for their respective events so that each event may be executed in short order with minimum confusion.
